In 2007 on the Bank of Scotland Portfol io, and in 2008 on the Lloyds Bank Portfolio, a policy on repayment plans (temporary arrangements to reduce minimum payment terms) was tightened with tighter criteria applied to the acceptance of accounts onto a repayment plan and the duration of the plan fixed to a maximum of 12 months. An exercise to remove accounts on repayment plans accepted under terms preceding the tightening of criteria (when there was no maximumtem and no minimum payment) commenced in 2007 on the Bank of Scotland Portfolio and 2009 on the Lloyds Bank Portfolio; this has resulted in an increase in delinquencies as many of those accounts failed to meet the contractual minimum payments following removal from the repayment plans.

Yield from finance charges and fees includes interest income, late fees, forex fees, credit insurance, card protection insurance, overlimit fees, cash advance fees, ATM fees, balance transfer fees and other fees related to credit cards. The yield percentage for each monthly period is calculated by dividing the sum of finance charges, fees and interchange during each monthly period by the Principal Receivables balance as of the beginning of the monthly period, then annualised by dividing the result by the number of days in each monthly period and multiplying by the number of days in the calendar year.

Volatility in the yield percentage is driven primarily by variations in the number of collection days during the performance period; the more collection days there are, the higher the value of payments received, and the higher the reported yield.

The yield during the first 24 months post account origination is low due to the introductory annual percentage rate ("APR") offers a t accountorigination which typically offer $0 \%$ on balance transfers and/or purchases during the first 9-24 months. This trend is evident in the yields reported in the first few performance periods for accounts originated in each year from 2009 onwards.

Pre-2004 the operating environment in the UK for credit cards issuers was less competitive, and Lloyds Banking Group's acquisition strategy for the Lloyds portfolio had initial APRs at account origination which were typically higher, accordingly, the pre-2004 vintages have a slightly higher yield compared with the post-2004 vintages. The originators believe that the differential margin in yield compared to post-2004 vintages is reducing as Lloyds Banking Group's risk-based re-pricing strategy across the portfolio results in the convergence of yield over time.

In July 2007, Lloyds la unched the Airmiles Duo card, taking over the Airmiles rela tionship from National Westminster Bankplc ("NatWest"). This product rewards credit card spend with Airmiles, and attracts a higher proportion of convenience users who a re less likely to revolve a balance on an account and attract interest charges. Yield on the Lloyds originated accounts from 2007 is therefore lower than a ccounts originated in years prior to 2007.

Following the initial addition of $£ 2.9$ billion of Lloyds Receivables to the Penarth Receivables Trust in November 2010, overallyield for the Penarth Receivables Trust has increased, driven by higher payment rates and so ha ve the Finance Charge Collections on the Lloyds portfolio rela tive to the Bank of Scotland portfolio.

Net losses for a performance period is calculated as Principal Receivables charged off during the performance period less recoveries received on previously charged off accounts during the performance period, all divided by the Principal Receivables balance as of the beginning of the performance period, then annualised by dividing the result by the number of days in the performance period and multiplying by the number of days in the calendar year.

Net losses during 2008 and the first few months of 2009 are lower due to the initial selection criteria for new Receivables added to the Penarth Receivables Trust which excluded accounts in the later stages of delinquency. This seasoning impact is evident in November 2010 when $£ 2.9$ billion of Lloyds Receivables were added to the Penarth Receivables Trust resulting in reduced net losses; the originators expect net losses to increa se further over the coming months up to the net losses levels observed during 2010 in the months prior to the addition of the Lloyds Receivables.

The higher charge offs on accounts origina ted pre-2004 is due to Bank of Scotland originating accounts above-market volumes during 2002 and 2003 in line with Bank of Scotland's market growth strategy at the time. Since 2004, a cquisition a nd underwriting strategies have been reviewed and substantially revised. In accordance with this revised strategy, Lloyds Banking Group has taken significant steps to reduce its acquisition of accounts, a nd exposure to existing a ccounts, in the higher risk segments of the credit cards market.

In 2008 during the economic market dislocation, there was an industry-wide deterioration in the quality of business a cquired. Lloyds Banking Group undertook significant de-risking in response, with tighter cutoffs reducing volume a nd lower initial credit lines. This activity wa s undertaken in the second half of 2008 and into 2009. The originators believe that this has resulted in a significant improvement in the credit quality of a ccounts origina ted in since 2009.

Net charge offs in August 2013 are negative for some vintages and below trend for others. This is due to a large debt sale of previously charged off a ccounts whereby the proceeds from the debtsale were posted as recoveries in the month.

Delinquencies include both Principal Receivables and Finance Charge Receivables. The $30+$ days delinquency percentage for a performanceperiod is calculated as total receivables 30 days or more past due divided by total Principal Receivables and FinanceCharge Receivables a sof the last day ofthe performance period.

Delinquencies during 2008 a nd the first few months of 2009 are lower due to the initial selection critena for new Receivables added to the Penarth Receivables Trust which excluded a ccounts in the later stages of delinquency. This seasoning impact is evident in November 2010 when $£ 2.9$ billion of Lloyds Receivables were added to the Penarth Receivables Trust resulting in reduced delinquencies; the origina tors expect delinquencies to increase over the coming months up to the delinquency levels observed during 2010 in the months prior to the addition of the Lloyds Receivables.

In 2008 in response to the deteriorating economic environment, Lloyds Banking Group undertook significant de-risking of its portfolio, with credit lines of higher risk customers reduced and tighter cut-offs and lower initial credit lines improving the quality of new account acquisitions. This activity was undertaken in 2008 and into 2009. The originators believe that this has resulted in a reduction in delinquencies through the second half of 2009 which has continued through 2010 and into 2011.

In 2012 Lloyds Banking Group changed its charge off policy for a ccounts in financial difficulty where the account holder does not meet thecriteria to enter a temporary reduced repayment plan. The charge offof these a ccounts has been accelerated to 120 days in arrears from the standard 180 days charge off policy. This has resulted in a drop in the level of delinquencies at 120 to 180 days and thus total $30+$ days delinquencies.

Principal payment rate for a performance period is calculated as Principal Collections received from cardholders during the performance period divided by Principal Receivables at the beginning of the performance period.

For the Bank of Scotland portfolio, pre-2004 account originations typically received higher spending rewards a nd attracted a higher percentage of convenience users. As a result, payment rates for this segment tend to bestronger for the pre-2004 vintage. From 2005 onwards, Bank of Scotland products have typically targeted the borrower population with more attractive lower introductory APRs instead of rewards. This strategy has reduced the a verage payment rate on Bank of Scotland's credit card receivables originated since 2005.

In July 2007, Lloyds la unched the Airmiles Duo card, taking over the Airmiles relationship from NatWest. This product rewards credit card spend with Airmiles, and attracts a higher proportion of convenience users who pay down their balance in full each month. Payment rates for this product on the Lloyds portfolio increa sed not only for originations from 2007, butalso for the pre-2007 vintages assomeexisting customers switched to the new product and changed their spending and payment behaviours to benefit from the Airmiles rewards. Payment rates have increased across all origina tion years from November 2010 following the initial addition of $£ 2.9$ billion of Lloyds Receivables to the Penarth Receivables Trust.
