RATIONALE

Group Policy Rationale

This Policy has been designed to assist in managing the risk of payments, offers, promises of a bribe (making a bribe) or receipt, requests or acceptance of a bribe (being bribed) by an individual or associated party. The overall risk includes the following risk drivers:

- Failure to comply with anti-bribery legislation both in the UK and in the other jurisdictions in which Lloyds Banking Group (the Group) operates;
- Failure to maintain consistent, proportionate and effective approach to anti-bribery;
- Failure to respond effectively to 'an offer or acceptance of any gift, fee, reward or other advantage to or from any person as an inducement to do something improper in the conduct of the Group's business, which is dishonest, illegal or a breach of trust'. This includes offers and promises to give as well as requests and agreements to receive bribes.

In addition, this Policy has been designed to support compliance with the following legislation and / or regulations:

- Bribery Act 2010, in particular sections 1, 2 and 7 which enable the prosecution of individuals and commercial organisations;
- Bribery Act 2010 Guidance about procedures which relevant commercial organisations can put into place to prevent persons associated with them from bribing (section 9 of the Bribery Act 2010) including the six Ministry of Justice (MoJ) principles;

Proceeds of Crime Act (POCA) 2002;

- Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) Handbook - Principles for Business, in particular, principles 1, 2, 3 and 8;
- FCA Financial Crime – a Guide for Firms (in particular Part 1 – sections 2 & 6, Part 2 – sections 9 & 13);

US Foreign Corrupt Practices Act 1977; and

Any other jurisdictional legislation that has extra-territorial application.

The Group has a moral and ethical duty to act with the highest standards of integrity and honesty in all it does. This Policy builds on the Group's corporate responsibility to its customers, shareholders and colleagues to deter, prevent, detect and respond to those who would seek to use the Group to facilitate any form of financial crime.

The Group has no appetite for breaching bribery legislation and/or regulation. This includes activities conducted by an external party supplying services for or on behalf of the Group, or acting on the Group's behalf (the "Supplier").

In jurisdictions where the local legislative and regulatory requirements exceed the requirements set out in this document, the Supplier must comply with such higher standards.

GROUP ANTI-BRIBERY POLICY SUMMARY FOR THIRD PARTY SUPPLIERS

Customer Impact

The Group's vision is to be the best bank for customers. The Group Anti-Bribery Policy supports this vision and the aim of providing investors with strong, stable and sustainable returns by:

- Complying with legal and regulatory requirements;
- Understanding the Group's risk appetite;
- Implementing internal processes and controls including appropriate risk assessment to mitigate the risk of bribery; and
- Receiving adequate training and thereby understanding how to act in an ethical manner.

SCOPE

This third party version of the Policy applies to suppliers where it has been identified that the Group Policy applies to the provision of their goods and or services.

MANDATORY REQUIREMENTS – GENERAL

Principal prohibition

The Supplier, and anyone engaged by the Supplier to act for or on behalf of the Group, must not:

- a. offer, promise, give, request, agree to receive or accept a bribe; or
- b. do anything to circumvent controls in place to deter, prevent or detect bribery.

Required procedures

In order to comply with legislative requirements, the Group's approach to managing the risk of bribery is informed by the six core principles contained in the UK Ministry of Justice Guidance issued under Section 9 of the UK Bribery Act 2010.

The Supplier must ensure that in respect of the activities carried out for or on behalf of the Group, it operates procedures (including controls, processes and operations) designed to manage the risk of bribery, which are:

- proportionate to the bribery risk (as identified through a risk assessment exercise);
- appropriate and relevant for the type of business;
- communicated to relevant parties (internal and external), including the Group;
- documented in a clear comprehensible manner and accessible to all relevant persons; and
- reviewed regularly to ensure they remain up-to-date and reflect current practice.

Prevention of Corruption

Corruption is defined as the abuse of entrusted power for private gain and is a term used to describe a wide range of financial misconduct.

The Group has zero appetite for acts of corruption committed by colleagues, customers or suppliers. Any incidents or potential incidents of corruption (by employees of the Supplier or any other persons who will perform services on behalf of the Group) must be reported in accordance with the reporting requirements of this and any related policies that deal with activities that fall under the definition of corruption.

Dealings with Public Officials may pose a greater corruption risk due to their position and status. Under section 6 of the Bribery Act 2010 it is a specific offence to bribe a foreign public official. Suppliers must, when dealing with any Public Official, ensure that appropriate steps are taken to minimise the bribery and corruption risks associated with relationships of this nature.

Top Level Commitment

Effective top level commitment allows an organisation to drive an appropriate and effective anti-bribery culture. Suppliers may consider appointing a nominated individual(s) with technical expertise and professional credibility to be responsible for the management of anti-bribery risk in a similar manner to the structure utilised within the Group.

Threat and Risk Assessment

The purpose of a risk assessment is to allow the supplier to identify and mitigate bribery risks associated with the conduct of their business.

The supplier must undertake a regular anti-bribery risk assessment in order to identify and mitigate the bribery risks associated with the conduct of its business.

The supplier must ensure that all risks identified are managed and mitigated by the application of its anti-bribery controls.

Due diligence

The purpose of due diligence is to identify and mitigate the risk that a bribe is offered to obtain or retain business relating to the Group, or an advantage in the conduct of the Group or the supplier's business.

The supplier must complete risk-based anti-bribery due diligence on persons (including individuals and incorporated or unincorporated bodies) who will perform services for or on behalf of the Group which is appropriate and relevant to such services. Further guidance on risk-based due diligence can be obtained from your supplier manager if required.

In determining whether a person is acting for or on behalf of the Group, the supplier must consider the nature of the activity being undertaken. As a minimum, an agent, subsidiary or any other person obtaining, retaining or conducting business on behalf of the Group must be subject to due diligence.

The supplier must, as part of their due diligence activities, identify all directors and perform appropriate additional checks to ascertain whether or not any of the directors are public officials and/or politically exposed persons (PEPs). Where the nature of the services provided and the involvement of public officials and/or PEPs leads to an increase in bribery risks, further guidance must be sought from your supplier manager.

Due diligence for employees

The supplier must assess the need for, and extent of, ongoing due diligence for persons engaged by it to identify and mitigate bribery risks.

Monitoring and Review

The supplier must ensure that arrangements are in place to monitor regularly the continued adequacy and effectiveness of processes, systems and controls in order to assess compliance with this document. This will include any assurance, oversight and/or audit reviews.

Where deficiencies are identified, suppliers must resolve them without delay, escalate to the Group where appropriate and monitor thereafter to identify and prevent any recurrence.

Gifts, Entertainment & Hospitality

The supplier must not offer, either personally or on behalf of the Group, gifts, entertainment and hospitality (GEH) intended to unduly influence a decision-maker, supplier or customer in order to gain or retain business on behalf of the Group.

Suppliers must perform analysis of GEH records to ensure that any GEH offered or received is proportionate and relevant to both an individual's role and the relationship between the supplier and the offeror or recipient of the GEH.

When analysing GEH, suppliers need to be aware of the following "Red Flags" and must escalate any instances where any or all of these factors are present:

- Anomalies or 'out of Policy' GEH offered or received;
- The timing of the offer or receipt of GEH in relation to contract or other related negotiations; and
- Any GEH that has not been recorded and/or reported.

Charitable Donations

The supplier must not make any donations to charities for or on behalf of the Group.

Political Donations

The supplier must not make any political donations for or on behalf of the Group.

Facilitation Payments

Facilitation payments are illegal under UK law. A facilitation payment is a payment which is made to expedite or secure the performance of a routine non-discretionary action, such as processing papers, issuing permits, and other actions by a person which they are already bound to perform.

Facilitation payments which relate in any way to the services provided to Lloyds Banking Group are prohibited. In exceptional circumstances of duress (only where there is a threat to life, limb or liberty) facilitation payments may have to be made. Where possible, prior approval from the Group must be obtained. In any event, all such facilitation payments must be reported to the Group immediately.

The supplier must ensure that:

- the risk of facilitation payments which relate in any way to the services provided to the Group being requested is included in their risk assessment;
- all requests for such facilitation payments are reported to the Group;
- suitable procedures to mitigate the risk are in place where there is a likelihood that facilitation payments will be requested (e.g. in certain jurisdictions). These procedures must include specific training for individuals who may have to manage such requests; and
- all those acting for or on behalf of the Group are aware of their responsibilities in respect of facilitation payments even where these are declined or refused.

GROUP ANTI-BRIBERY POLICY SUMMARY FOR THIRD PARTY SUPPLIERSReporting

The supplier must ensure that all persons engaged by it are aware of routes to report instances of suspected bribery or attempted bribery.

To the extent permitted under applicable law, the supplier will, as soon as is reasonably practicable, notify the Group in the event that a person acting on its or the Group's behalf is suspected of bribery or corrupt practices. The supplier will promptly notify the Group if the supplier, or any person engaged by it, is prosecuted, charged with or convicted of any bribery-related offence.

Record Keeping

The supplier must retain all records (electronic and paper, and including relevant training records) in line with the requirements found in the Group Data Policy Summary for Third Party Suppliers.

Training

The supplier should ensure that all employees complete anti-bribery training and awareness activities appropriate to both their individual roles and the level of bribery risk associated with the role.

Where employees are identified as working in roles considered high risk for bribery risks role specific training should be considered to ensure that employees are aware as to the increased bribery risks associated with their roles.

KEY CONTROLS
Control Title	Control Description	Frequency
Anti-Bribery Training	Anti-Bribery training must be completed annually by all employees of the supplier (where they provide goods and services to the Group that may introduce bribery risk).	Quarterly
Anti-Bribery Training for New Starters	All new employees must complete mandatory Anti-Bribery training within 8 weeks of commencing employment with the supplier	Quarterly
Anti-Bribery Reporting	Key management information is submitted to the Group via the supplier's usual Group contact; the information provided is accurate, timely and approved for submission. Key management information includes, but is not limited to, information in respect of Training, GEH, Charitable Donations, Political Donations, Facilitation Payments and high risk third parties.	Monthly

MANDATORY REQUIREMENTS – NON-COMPLIANCE

Any material differences between the requirements set out above and the supplier's own controls should be raised by the supplier with the Group's supplier manager.

The supplier manager will then discuss the non compliance with the Accountable Executive for the relationship and local risk team to agree way forward.
